All of the loca surroundings this morning

SENATOR INGALLS TALKS.

HIS DREAM OF THE EXPANSION OF THE AMERICAN REPUBLIC. 24 Will More Northward and Southward to the Pole and the Equator, Absorbing Canada, Mexico, and the West Indies— His Contemptuous Opinion of Cieveland.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 .- I have had a talk with the most picturesque and striking figure in the hurly-burly of Washington political life. When Senator John J. Ingalls speaks in the Benate the chamber is crowded. His utters ances are amazingly sharp, pungent, caustic, and severe at times, and it has been the generally expressed opinion that he prepared his speeches with great care. I find, however, that the faculty of force and finish which is so marked a characteristic of his public talk is the natural manner of the man. The President of the Senate has been wildly lampooned by the caricaturists. He is tall, spare, and agile looking. A big "splash" of white hair surmounts his forehead, his eyes are bright, and he speaks without affectation of any kind. He wore a morning ja:ket, and strolled up and down his library, smoking as he talked, and he talked to the point. The interview which spears below was written out and subjected to his revision. It is authorized and endorsed:

Is there." I asked, "a strong desire throughout the United States for the peaceful acquisition of Canada and Mexico? Who spoke of an ocean-bound republic?"

Stephen A. Douglas I believe," said Senator Ingalis. "first formulated the phrase, but the idea is as old as Jamestown and Plymouth. It was the cargo of the Mayflower. Obedient to its impulse, the column of Anglo-Saxon migration has in two centuries marched across the continent, and now pauses upon the const of the Pacific meditating new conquests. It has expelled the Indian, the Frenchman, the Spaniard, the Chinese. It is the conquering race, and tolerates no element that it cannot absorb and assimilate. Having abolished the Western frontier. it will move northward and southward to the pole and the equator. We have reached the limit of arable land in our public domain. In ten years the homestead system will be extinct within the territory now open to settle-Since the war with Mexico we have ceased to enlarge our boundaries, not because the instinct of acquisition was lost, but because we had enough. The pressure of surplus popabsorb Mexico and Canada inevitably, and porhaps Cuba and the other West Indian islands, which we need for the tobacco and sugar products in order to complete our industrial independence. We have paid duties enough on sugar in the past thirty years to have purchased Cuba from Spain thrice over. We also need additional accommodations in the torrid zone for the surplus African population of this country, which will require an outlet before the close of the century. The race problem in the South is not yet settled. If the whites and blacks cannot assimilate they will eventually probably separate . peacefully by common consent, the negroes establishing States in the tropics and accomplishing their destiny in their original and native environment. We have now a continuous line of railway to Mexico. It will soon be continued to the valley of the Amazon. Vestibuled trains will run through without change from New York to Buenos Ayres. Along this highway the An-glo-Baxon race will move to the domination of the hemisphere."

vals would attract populations like that of Dakota, incapable of adopting Democratic heresies."

"Suppose Canada were to answer the retalitory measures by similar measures against us, what would be the effect?"

"In my judgment there is not even a remote possibility of the adoption of the poicey of retalitation, either by the United States or Canada.
All know that England is the real party in interest, and not Canada. If England did not persistently interfere to exasperate, irritate, and keep alive the casual and temporary resentments between Canada and the United States the adjustment of our differences would long ago have been consider. The talk about retaliation is gusconading bluster or campaign unitposes. As seen as Harrison is elected the Democrats will roar as genily as sucking doves. The quarrel is with England, and not with Canada, and in the application of the lex talionis to the Dominion the United States would hold the hot end of the poker."

Theathe Senator looked at his cigar. It had gone out. He tossed it into the grate, and talked no more about politics and statesman-

TRIED AGAIN FOR MURDER.

Baher, Who Killed His Wife and Her Mother, to Face Another Jury.

WELLSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 6 .- Before Judge John J. Jacob, in the Brooke County Circuit Court to-morrow, Van B. Baker, the convicted murderer of his wife and her aged mother, Mrs. Druseilla McWha, will once more face a jury, and enter upon a second trial for the crime with which he stands charged. The crime alleged against Van Baker bas seldom been equalled in America for atrocity of conception and brutelity of execution. The motive was pecuniary gain, the murderer ex-pecting to profit to the extent of some ten thousand dollars by the killing of Mrs. McWha. in whose name the property stood, and the removal of his wife, who was her only helr. A man of unusual intelligence, of deep learning, thousand dollars by the killing of Mrs. Mewha, in whose name the property stood, and the removal of his wife, who was her only helr. A man of unusual intelligence, of deep learning, and of handsome personal appearance, living at comparative case through the income of Mrs. McWha's property, which she used for the support of the family of three, he deliberately set about the invention and perfection of a plot to murder the two unsuspecting women, and obtain for his sole use and benefit the money which would thereby come into his hands.

Baker lived at the little hambet of Holliany's Cove, Hancock county, on the line of the littsburgh, Cincinnani and St. Louis hairbond, about twenty-five miles north of wheeling and three miles from the considerable town of Steubenville, O. Across the county line in Pentsylvania resided his father, a man ol excellent standing in the community, and acove suspicion of any commixance in his son's plans. On May 9, 1887, Baker was seen by his neighbors bustling about the premises, accompanied at times by his wile and her mother, and everything seemed to be going on as usual. Early in the atternoon the women were again seen, and at 3 celuck Baker came down the path from the house with a fight satchel, and, proceeding to the station, boarded the passengor train for his lather's in Fennsylvania. After his departure the two women were seen no more, and a neighbor who called was unable to obtain admission to the house. The next morning Baker returned to Holliday's Cove and proceeded directly to his house. He eatered the house, but almost immediately ran out again with the cry of murder, and a monent ister led a half dozen of his heighbors to the sitting-toom of the house, where lying on the floor of the room in their night clothes were the bloody corposes of his wile and her mother, their skulls crushed and their throats cut in the most brutal manner. In the adjoining kitchen was the bloody colining sithed morning tenses of hare clining to it, and a bloody are. The floor was spatiered with b

Says there was Collusion in Dispossessing Him of Pythagorus Hall,

The New York Protective Association, owner of Pythagoras Hall, sued the Quinn end of District Assembly 49 to dispossess it for the non-payment of $500 rent overdue. Judgment was taken by default, and the Quinn faction was turned out. Louis F. Post argued in the Fourth District Court vesterday a motion to open the default. It was asserted that the default was the result of fraud and collusion between the landlord and the opponents of Quinn, and that the latter, who was the proper official at the head of the assembly, was not sorved with any of the papers. For this reason it is asked that the judgment be setaside, and that Quinn's assembly be restored to its quarters pending a bearing on the merits.

The papers were served upon Michael Breslin, as Treasurer of the assembly, during the time that the trouble began in the organization. Breslin is an opponent of Quinn, and, it is averred, never showed him the papers. When Quinn was ousted he and his followers went to a hall in Forsyth street, while Breslin and his adherents, who have been incorporated as District Assembly No. 49, Knights of Labor of America, meet in Pythagoras Hall.

Henry W. Unger, the counsel for the New York Protective Association, the landlord, presented affidavits denying the charge of collusion and fraud, and urged that as there was no question but that the reat was due, and as the Breslin faction was now in possession under a new loase, there was no reason shown why the judgment should be set aside. Decision was reserved. served with any of the papers. For this rea-

Bohan's entence of 26 Years and 11 Months Increased 5 Months.

William Bohan, the Rockaway hotel keeper who gouged out both of his wife's eyes, was resentenced yesterday in Long Island City by County Judge Garretson. Deputy Warden Jackson of Sing Sing prison produced him in court. As he stood before the bar he were an air of indifference. Judge Garretson explained the necessity for imposing a new sentence, saying that the deduction for good behavior had been computed upon each term separately in-been computed upon each term separately instead of collectively. The original sentences were 14 years and 5 months on the first indictment and 12 years and 6 months on the second, making a total of 25 years and 11 months. Allowing for the commutation, the actual term would be 17 years and 12% days. Continuing, the Judge said:

"After consulting learned authorities on the subject I have arrived at the conclusion that the commutation should have been computed on the two sentences as a whole, and in order that your discharge may take place during the months required by law. I now sentence you to fourteen years and five months on the first charge, and twelve years and eleven months on the second—twenty-seven years and four months in all—which, with the commutation off, leaves sixteen years seven months and eleven days for you to serve, your release taking place April 28, 1905."

Bohan was then taken back to Sing Sing by Deputy Jackson.

Senator Chandler's Illegal Frank Exhibited, The Cleveland and Thurman Wholesale Dry Goods Club put a new trophy on exhibition in the windows of their headquarters at 343 Broadway yesterday. It was the wrapper that had come from a Republican document addressed to J. Aschan, 217 Mott street, this city. It was the ordinary wrapper used by the Congressional Record, and bore, in place of a stamp, the signature of William L. Chandler. Senator from New Hampshire. The placard attached to the wrapper read:

Another imposition on the Congressional franking privilege. This time from the Hon. Within E. ANOTHER TRUSTED BOOKKEEPER. Ille Accounts Investigated on General Prin-

A. D. Henriques, for eight years the trusted bookkeeper of Hinds. Ketchum & Co., label printers of North Third street and Wythe avenue. Williamsburgh, was arrested Friday night for stenling money from the firm and was arrainged yesterday before Justice Nacher, Mr. Hinds and Mr. Ketchum were present. Henriques was represented by Lawyer Gottschalk. who got an adjournment of the examination until next Friday.

"Eight years ago." said Mr. Hinds to a reporter, 'we employed Henriques. I think he came from New Orleans. He was married, was plain in his dress, and was punctual in his habits. We believed him to be thoroughly honest, for we often tested his honesty. When we heard and read of so many robberies and theirs by trusted people we thought we would give our trusted men an examination. Last Monday morning we sent our books to an expert. When Mr. Henriques came to the office that morning we told him what we had done. Ho looked surprised and became confused. Some of us thought his face blanched and that he trembled. He had nothing to do and he left the office. On Tuesday morning he did not roturn, and we became anxious. On Wednesday, when he did not appear, we spoke to our expert, but he was not able to give us any information of crocked work. This releved us, but we wondered at our bookkeeper's absonce. "On Thursday Mr. Gottschalk wrote us a note making an appointment to see us with Henriquez. He had conlessed to Mr. Gottschalk his lawyer, that he had robbed us of a large amount of money. What the exact amount was he could not say. He explained how lie did it and yet kept his books regular. Our expert, guided by this confesion, soon found, under the date of Nov. 25, 1885, a steal of $2,000. This satisfied us, and we secured his arrest."

Mr. Gottschalk said his client was very unfortunate in his domestic relations, and took to drink to drown his sorrows. This led him to peculate. He began with small sums as far back as 1883, and, finding that these thefts were not discovered, he continued them, increasing the amounts. He got a divorce a short time ago, and he is living with his children in upper Broadway. plain in his dress, and was punctual in his habits. We believed him to be thoroughly

WASHED ASHORE AT EDGEWATER.

An Unidentified Body Burled There With-The body of a man was found in the North River, off Edgewater, and about two miles below Fort Lee, at 6 o'clock yesterday morning. by Capt. Curry of the propeller Well and Happy. The man seemed to be about 30 years old. was 5 feet 10 inches tall. and had dark brown hair and a sandy moustache. He had on nothing but underclothing, which consisted of a drab fiannel shirt and red undershirt and drawers. The body had apparently been in the water nine or ten days. There were no marks of violence. The man is thought to have been employed on a sand schooner.

Justice Fitznerald of Edgewater, who exercises the functions of a Coroner, viewed the body and ordered it buried in the Edgewater cemetery. There was no inquest. The Justice was asked if he intended to advertise the finding of the body. He replied that no money had been appropriated for that purpose.

Bodies are frequently washed by the tide against the Edgewater shore, and more than once Justice Fitzgerald has been accused of hurrying the bodies under ground without sufficient investigation. The Justice, however, says he has no morgue, and what is he to do when a partly decomposed body is found within his purisdiction? He declares that he always notifies the proper authorities when there is greand to suspect foul play. He says it is untrue that he has ever ordered a body buried without first examining it. As to making public the finding of a body it is his habit, he says, to send descriptions to one or more newspapers of New York city. a drab flannel shirt and red undershirt and

A Bridge Car Off the Track,

As a train of four cars was being switched to the Brooklyn-bound track at the New York terminus of the bridge shortly after 1 P. M. esterday one of the trucks of the forward car jumped the track on the curve close to the station platform. The car was not damaged, but the wooden guard along side the rail was ground into splinters. It took half an hour to get the derailed car back on the track. Meanwhile trains arriving from Brooklyn were blocked on the opposite track until they reached half way across the bridge. Finally the order was given to send no more trains from Brooklyn until the track could be cleared, but this didn't do the people in the stalled trains any particular good. Some of them had to wait an hour before room could be made in the station to land them.

The accident was thought to be due to the slippery condition of the tracks, which were west with rain. the wooden guard along side the rail was

A porter employed in a Fulton street store caught a big rat in a wire trap yesterday, and with a dozen small boys at his heels carried it into the office of old Isaacsen the rat killer. The old man dropped it into a box with a wire cloth cover, and then put in a weasel that was about two-thirds the size of the rat. The moment the rat saw the enemy it backed

The moment the rat saw the enemy it backed into a corner, sat up on its haunches, folded its fore paws over its breast and began to cry. The weasel walked up and very deliberately sniffed at it, and then backed slowly away to the opposite corner of the box about four feet distent. The next instant it sprang across the box like a flash and in a twinkling had bitten the top of the rat's head off.

Isaacsen then took out the dead body and weighed it on account of its unusual size. It weighed exactly one pound and a quarter ounce. The old rat klifer says that no rat weighs over 17% ounces, and that the largest instead of being found about the plers and sewers, as commonly supposed, are to be found about slaughter houses.

A Strange Animal Killed in Alabama. OPELIKA, Ala., Oct. 6 .- Mr. W. D. Newman of Greenville, who was on a visit to relatives at Elba, went wildent hunting with some young men. When they got about three miles below Elba, on the Pea River, something dropped from the limb of a tree on Mr. Newman's head and lacerated his cheek, bit one ear off, and and lacerated his cheek, bit one ear off, and almost severed the left jugular vein. It was an animal on the order of a catamount, but had a web from front to hind quarter like a flying squirrol. It had a face almost flat but a little concave, teeth three inches long, large protruding eyes, stiff hair, and a web loot like a duck, but long, sharp claws and very short legs. It weighed twenty-six pounds after being killed. No such animal was eyer seen in this part of the State before. It is thought to have been a cross between a vampire and a wildeat, as a vampire escaped from a circus below here a few years ago, Mr. Newman is at Beard's Hotel, in Elba, where a physician is attending bim. attending bim.

A LIVELY GUESSING MATCH THOSE WHO GUESS BIGHT WILL RE-

CEIFE $2 50 FOR $1.00. he Question In: "Who Will Be Our Next President?"—An Excellent Opportunity for the Thrifty and Bright... You Pays Your Money and You Takes Your Chotee."

Almost every one spends his life trying to double his capital or his savings in as short a time as possible; some never do it, some do, It all depends on whether his judgment is good or bad; he guesses that such and such an investment, or line of policy, or grade of goods, will bring success. Sometimes it does some-times it does not. Doubling one's capital or savings in a month is considered pretty good work (or luck, as the case may be); but here is a man who offers to give $2.50 for $1.00. Every one must admit this is rather a good offer. Such chances do not grow on every bush. But there is a bush at 189 Broadway, opposite John street, from which you may pluck $2,50 if you deposit there $1.00 and a correct guess as to who will be the next President, and if you make a miss you get your full dollar's worth. Most of the readers of THE SUN are familiar with the name of the "Dashaway" Fountain Pen, which has frequently been referred to in its columns in connection with some ingenious and original scheme of the Caw's Pen and Ink Company to advertise the pen, which has resulted in the sale of over one hundred thousand since July. Not satisfied with this, the company proposes to stop at nothing short of supplying every man, woman, and child " who do write" with a " Dashaway" pen. Here is their Intestoffer: They will send a $2.50 Dashaway pen to every one who will send them $1 and the name of the successful Presidential candidate. All that the applicant has to do is to write legibly on a piece of paper about three inches square his or her own name (both sexes are allowed to compete) and full address, and the name of the candidate he or she thinks will be elected our next President

This ticket, together with $1, is to be brought or mailed to the Caw's Ink and Pen Company. 189 Broadway, between Cortlandt and Doysta. and each applicant will receive a ticket like thist

if shall be elected the next President of the United States this ticket shall become good for a $2.50 Dashaway Double-Feed Fountain Pen. (Signed) 159 Broadway, New York.

The blank space will be filled in with the name of the applicant's choice for President. and all those who have named the successful candidate will receive the pen free from any candidate will receive the pen free from any additional cost.

It is not expected that every one will name the successful candidate. There are the company promises to apply the $1 received from those who name the defeated one toward the payment of a four-dellar Dashaway. That is, those on the defeated side can have a $4 pen by investing $3 more: every one gets full value for the dellar which accompanies his guess, and if he guesses right he gets a $2.50 pen by mail free of further expense, or he can have a $4 pen for an additional $1.50.

There is no limit placed on the number of guesses allowed so long as $1 is sent with each. For example, a person may send $5 and ill out five blanks and forward all to the company, and if his candidate is elected he will receive five $2.50 pens, or the equivalent of $12.50 in money.

Another plan proposed by this enterprising money.

Another plan proposed by this enterprising company is to send a pen to every one who will send them $2.50 with his or her name and the name of the candidate he or she thinks will be elected, and the applicant will receive the pen by return mail, and with it will be sent a ticket like the following:

If the candidate whose name is on the ticket is elected he will receive a dollar as a rebute from the company. This latter plan will commend itself to conservative people and those who are in a hurry to get the pen. The only question of doubt that can arise in the mind of any one is as to the reputation of the Caw's lak and Pen Co. in dealing with the public, and this question can be answered to the satisfaction of every one by their thousands of natrons, whose names will be furnished on application.

The political preference of the thousands who will respond to this offer will make a valuable campaign document, and as the time is short in which it can be used, the offer will be closed soon.

campaign document, and as the time is short in which it can be used, the offer will be closed soon.

The Dashaway pen itself is a very useful and ingenious article that no one who writes should be without, for it is always seady to give a clear, legible ink mark, and will keep on giving them for hours, covering about forty pages of foolscap at one filling, without the writer's ever having to "dip" or wipe. The pen is always ready for work, at any time or place, being pen and inkstand together in the compass of an ordinary penholder; and second, the attention is never distracted, even for a second, by the bother of dipping or trying the nib; it just runs on as freely as a lead pencil, but without requiring sharpening. The gold pen which is a part of this wonderfully convenient instrument is of the finest quality and dimond-pointed. It is called "Dashaway" because you can dash away for hours with it, following freely and without trammel your mest glowing thoughts, and helping you out when you are in a hurry to write that last article or eateh that next mail. It is a "double feeder"—feeds air in and ink out, being "built that way," and being the only one which is. There are tens of thousands of them in use all over the country; all classes of people use them—lawyers and expressmen, politicians and preachers, editors, reporters and authors, bankers, merchants, manuracturers, travelling men, teachers, stenographers—overy one who wants to write in a hurry at short notice or to keep it up for hours without bethering to dip, or to write under difficult circumstances, as in the saddle or in the catha of a yaent or on a bicycle, and that sort of thing. Of all the thousands who have bought them and who would like to take advantage of either of the highest praise.

Among these there are doubtless many who would like to take advantage of either of the epportunities offered above. Of course no one who uses a Dashaway would part with his or her own pen; but if there is a nicer article to give as a Christmas or birthday git or philopena present, or even to wager on the election itself, it has not yet been offered to the million who read this.

The manufacturers, being anxious to see how fully their pens were appreciated, sent out to about 12,000 of their customers the following letter:

about 12,000 of their customers the following letter:

"Dear Sir: Being desirous of knowing how you like the 'Dashaway' I'en wa sent you a short time ago, we will thank you for your unbinssed opinion of it. Should you not be satisfied in every way we hereby announce our willingness to refund your money or to exchange the pen for one better adapted to your use."

And the replies which they got were most enthusiastic and granifying. Not one out of the 12,000 asked to have his money refunded, and only about one hundred returned their pens for exchange. This is remarkable considering that most men are more careful in choosing a pen than in selecting a wife (which may, by the way, account for marriage being so often a failure, as recently claimed.—World—Adv.
